

Administrative Circular
25 August 2022

To: Foreign International Airline
Foreign Aircraft Operator

Director
International Air Transport Division
Civil Aviation Bureau

Treatment at the time of entry of crew on board aircraft from a foreign country to/from Japan (Requests)

Cabin crews and flight crews (hereinafter referred to as "Crew") who are on board aircraft to/from Japan and need to enter Japan for business and depart from Japan at a later date, will be treated as follows on and after 7 September 2022 based on "New Border Measures (31)" as of 25 August 2022.

(1) Crew listed below will be exempted from the behavioral restrictions during their stay in Japan and from the test upon entry.

- ① Crew entering from countries/regions classified as "Blue"*¹, and who have been tested*² within 72 hours prior to departure.
- ② Crew entering from countries/regions classified as "Blue" or "Yellow"*¹, and who are 3 doses of vaccine recipients*³.

*² Provided that the following test requirements specified by the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare are met, and the airline manages to meet the test requirements for the Crew.

<Points to note>

- When departing abroad: The airline must check for symptoms of Crew and not allow the Crew with symptoms to board the flight. The airline shall also provide a list of Crew by the time specified by the quarantine station.

- In-flight: The airline must check to see if any Crew on board is exhibiting symptoms. If, as a result of the check, there is a Crew who is exhibiting symptoms, the airline shall notify the quarantine station of the fact that a person exhibiting symptoms is on board at the time of prior notification to the quarantine station as specified in Article 6 of the Quarantine Act.

- When entering Japan: The airline shall conduct health checks of Crew, and if symptoms are present, they shall be subject to test upon entry, and the airline shall be responsible for conducting test of symptomatic Crew and other Crew on the same flight. In such cases, the flight crew and cabin crew are not considered to be on the same flight since they work in a segregated area. Crew must also sign the attached declaration form and submit it to the quarantine officer regarding planned activities in Japan.
- After entering Japan: Crew must implement basic infection control measures based on the following guidelines*⁴ set forth by the Government of Japan. The airline should thoroughly conduct the necessary health observations of Crew.
